When I received the irregular behavior letter from the USMLE, I was in state of shock and didn't know how to proceed. I asked around but it was not of any help. Finally, I contacted Mr. Bennett and got the solution. He helped me to make the best defense possible regarding my case. He has the experience to deal with these kind of letters and has the knowledge about the USMLE/NBME previous cases. I highly recommend to consult Mr. Bennett to any medical students who receive the irregular behavior letter.

Robert S. Bennett's response: "The medical student or doctor who receives a USMLE " Irregular Behavior" Letter must understand that the result may be an annotation on score reports, placement on transcripts, and a transmittal to the Federation of State Medical Boards' Physician Data Center, and being barred from all future Step examinations. Thus, your medical career may come to an end. Also keep in mind that an attempted action to subvert the examination process is enough to get you an IR letter. It is serious and has serious ramifications."
